

New panel products

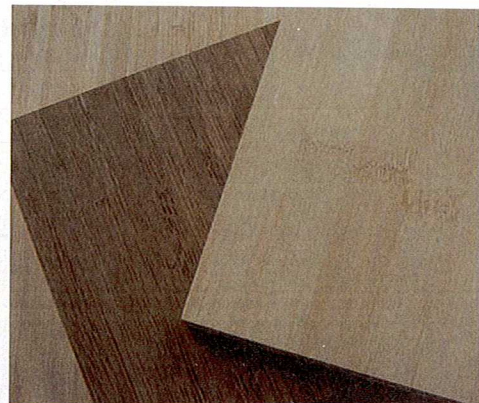

KIREI has introduced Windfall, a line of designer panels made from reclaimed lumber salvaged from industrial demolition sites. Kirei says its Windfall panels can contribute to LEED and other green building credits for reclaimed/recycled content, certified wood, indoor air quality and the regional materials credit for projects within a 500-mile radius of its manufacturing facility in Solana Beach, Calif. Panels come unfinished, with a clear coat that shows off the natural grain, or stained and prefinished in anthracite, mocha, ivory and leather colors. Contact: Kirei USA. FOAMKORE FR, from Kerfkore Co., is a Class A lightweight panel that meets ASTM E 84 certifications. It consists of a high-density magnesium oxide board face that is nonflammable and noncombustible combined with a lightweight polystyrene core. The product contains no added formaldehyde and offers a 60 percent weight reduction when compared to FR particleboard and MDF, according to the company. It is available in a 4' x 8' panel size and thicknesses from 3/4" to 3". Contact: Kerfkore Co. Tel: 800-637-3539. www.kerfkore.com

HARDWOOD SPECIALTY PRODUCTS has introduced O2 Bamboo veneer and solid panels, available as 100 percent FSC certified and made with no added formaldehyde. The species used in O2 Bamboo is Phyllostachys pubescens, also known as mao or moso bamboo, which grows in China's largest bamboo forest. It's available in vertical and horizontal panels, in both natural and carbonized color. Contact: Hardwood Specialty Products. Tel: 604-881-1988. www.hardwoods-inc.com
